This is our RAIDER COLORING BOOK.

Color it RED and GREEN—like Christmas.

Get out your crayons and follow us through a glowing year at EHS.

What a cheap way to get colored pictures in the annual!

Color the yearbook staff STINGY.

This is our SCHOOL.

Color it BUSY.

Color its hallowed halls LIVELY.

The classes were lively, too.

Sometimes we even learned something!

Dedication

We wish to dedicate the 1966 RAIDORIAN to Mr. Herbert N. Wicke, superintendent of the Earlville schools from 1957 to 1965. His administration was marked by physical expansion, membership in the North Central Association of High Schools and Colleges, and the establishment of a local chapter of the National Honor Society.

The people of the community are grateful to Mr. Wicke for his wise leadership during these years that will be remembered as a period of significant growth in our schools.

SCHOOL LIFE

These are our red letter days.

Color everything bright RED.

Oops! There is a day which is not so bright.

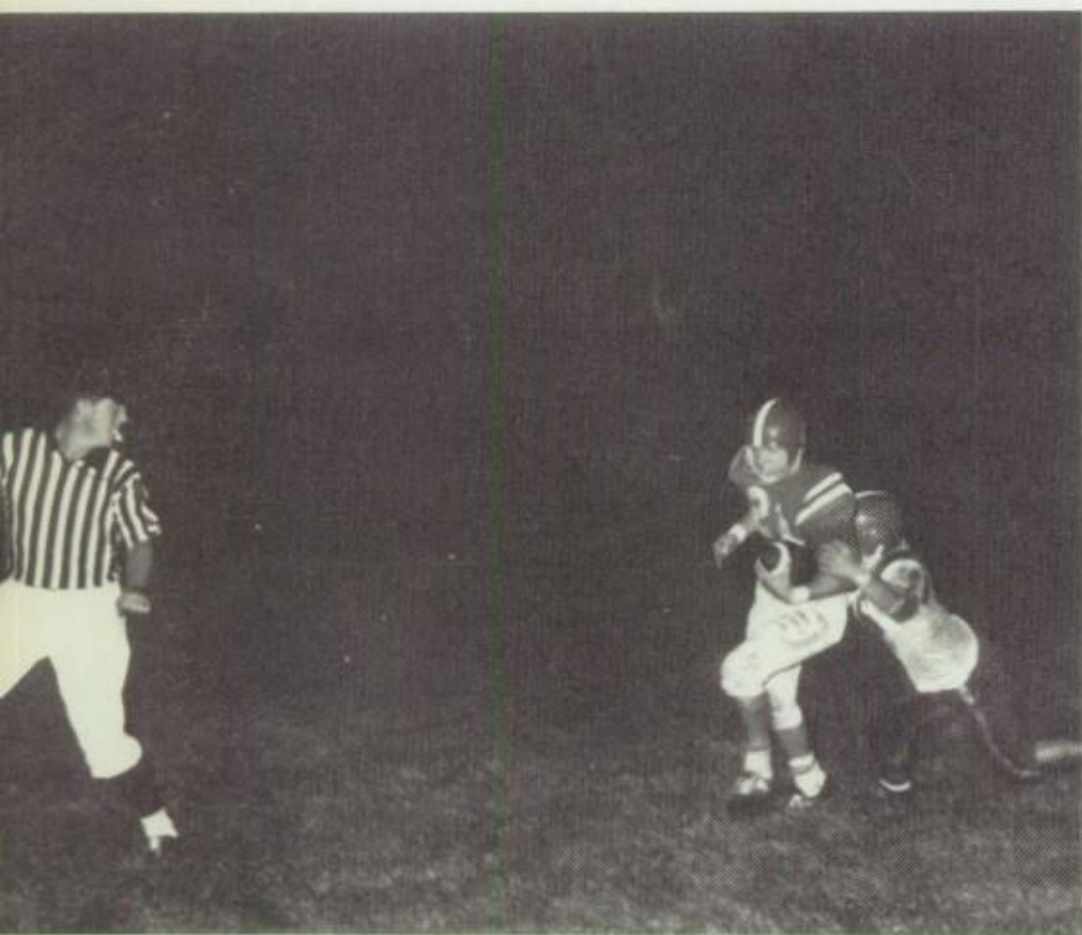

That is semester test day. Color it BLACK.

Varied Activities Keep EHS Students Busy

One of the Raiders smashed a Huntley end to the turf after receiving a sideline pass.

Raider T-shirts were worn by many on the days when there were games.

Students enrolled in Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cunningham's spring dancing class learned many basic steps by attending the ten-week course.

Increased enrollment necessitated the provision of new lockers.

KING Allen Worsley

With the assistance of his teammates, Atherton gained considerable yardage on a well-executed offensive play.

The junior class captured first place in the parade with their original theme "They're Cruisin' for a Bruisin'."

The student body showed much enthusiasm as they cheered the Raiders on to a decisive victory.

Queen Beverly Bailey tearfully accepted the crown and her newly bestowed honor to reign over the homecoming festivities.

Although Huntley had control of the ball, Rave and Worsley saw that no gain was made on the play.

The Senior Play, "Mother is a Freshman", was a very successful performance and enjoyed by all.

Bunny (Sandra Pickert) expressed her disgust at Howie (Ken Goldman) when he tried to persuade her to return to the dance.

Senior Class Presented

"Mother Is a Freshman"

When Mrs. Abigail Abbot (Mary Gedwell) was informed by the Dean that she would have to leave school, she tried to convince her daughter Susan (Susan Jones) that everything would be all right.

Dean Gillingham (Don Blakeslee) and Susan (Susan Jones) expressed disapproval when they entered and found Professor Michaels (Craig Carter) and Mrs. Abigail Abbot (Mary Gedwell) carrying out a traditional undergraduate custom on the eve of the big dance.

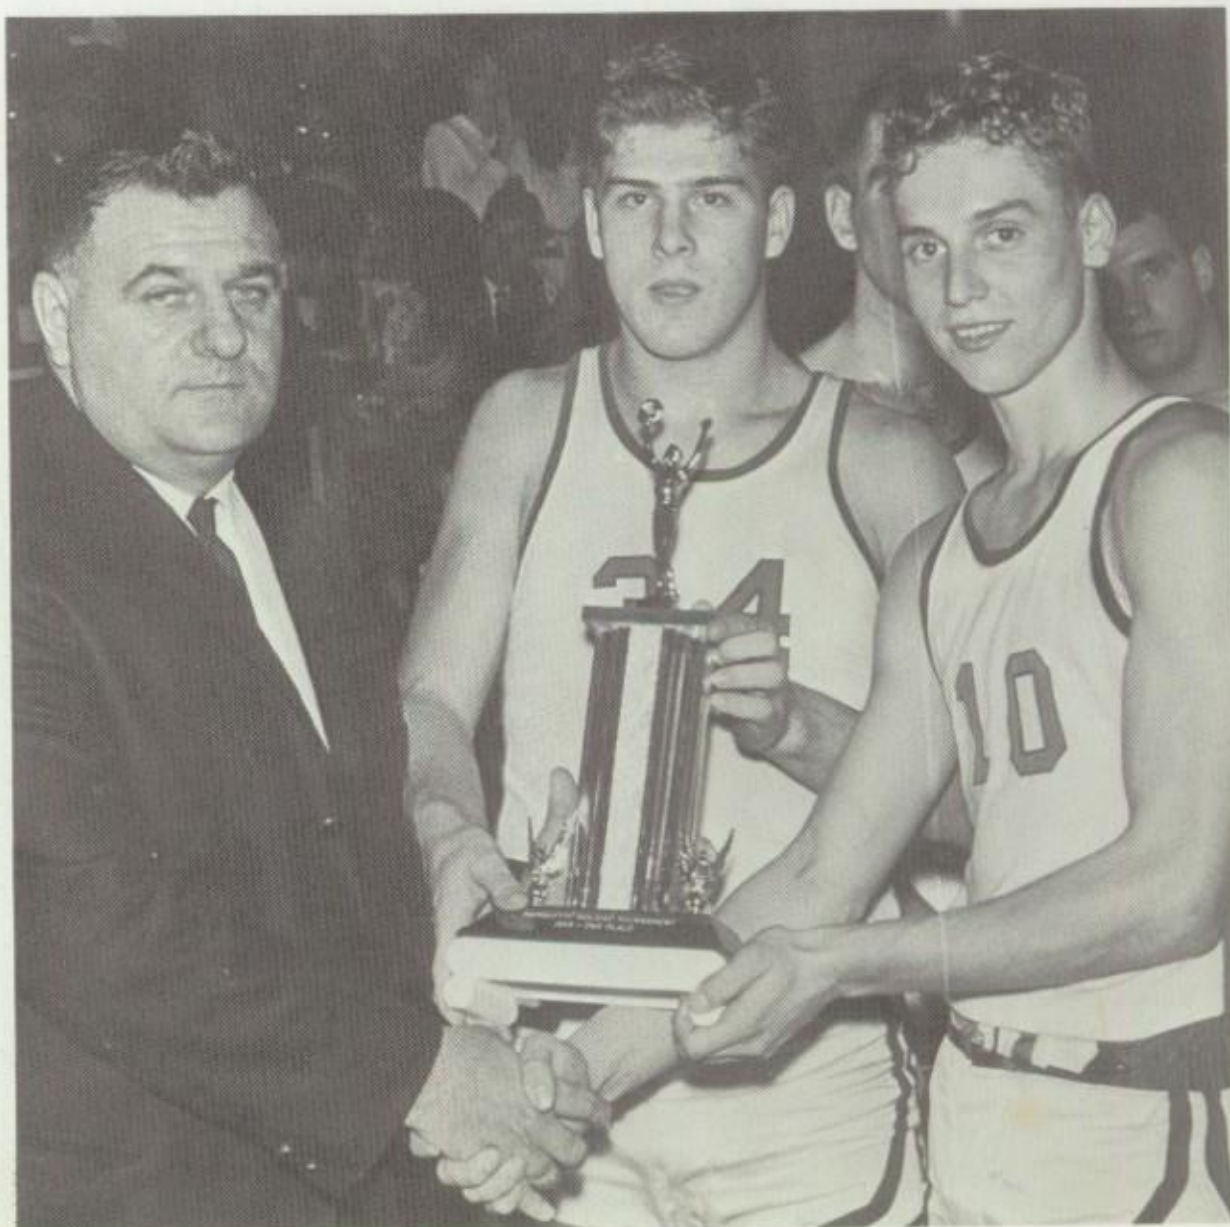

The hilarious sophomore skit portrayed an inside view of some of the classes at EHS.

An unusually thin Santa Claus presided over the senior skit, which was a talent show.

Christmas Season Greeted with Enthusiasm

The holiday season was a happy one for Raider fans as our team won second place in the Marquette Holiday Tournament.

Hopefully examining a rock which he had found, Roger (Dale Harris) tried to convince the others that it might be gold.

John Miller, who played the leading role in the play, was transformed into an ancient miner. This transformation was performed by our make-up artist and director, Mrs. Zerkel.

Juniors Introduce "Theatre-in-the-Round"

The junior class play, "The Dancing Ghost," presented Nov. 19, differed from its predecessors by following the modern trend of theatre-in-the-round.

The theme centered around the "old desert rat" who has spent his days and nights dreaming of the golden days of long ago. When a group of Eastern dudes come to town--one of whom proves to be his granddaughter--Old Zeb is ecstatic. Poetic justice is achieved when he returns to the East to live with his family.

Gratifying box office receipts made a generous contribution to the fund for the Junior Senior Prom.

After a fine performance, the cast relaxed at a house party given by Cassandra Simpson.

Mrs. Zerkel presided at the table during the annual pre-prom tea given by Mrs. Johnson, a former Earlville teacher.

Two couples paused briefly between dances to admire the replica of the Eiffel Tower.

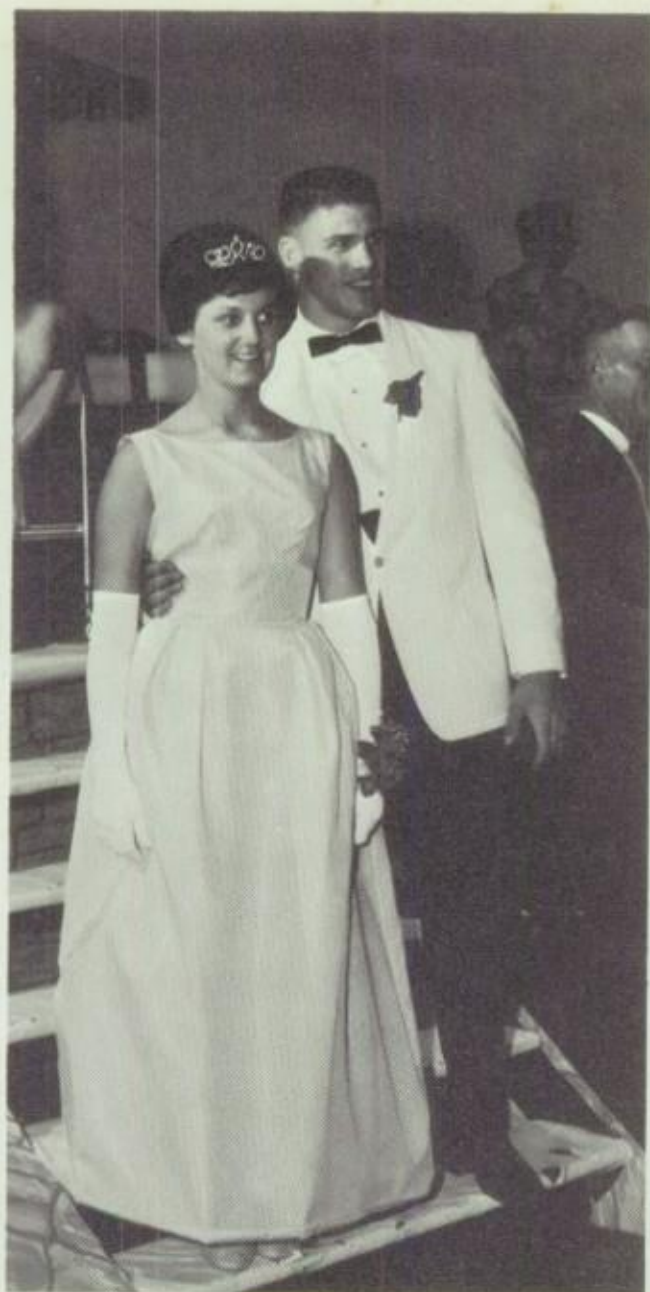

Guests at the tea enjoyed the social hour which preceded the banquet.

Sophomore servers for the banquet and dance also enjoyed the music provided by Vern Rector and his "Men of Note."

Following the dinner, Ken Goldman entertained the guests by reading the Senior Class Will.

Paula Corcoran and her escort, Dick Rhea, arrived at the dance in a gala mood.

Pam Kreiter and Allen Worsley paused for a moment and observed other couples on the dance floor.

“An Evening in Paris” Delighted Guests At the Junior-Senior Prom

Despite late evening showers, which did not dampen spirits, everyone was relieved to see an improvement in the weather.

During a memorable week at Springfield, Boys State delegates, Jack Cantlin and Dean Whittaker, participated in a mock government, thus increasing their knowledge of governmental procedures.

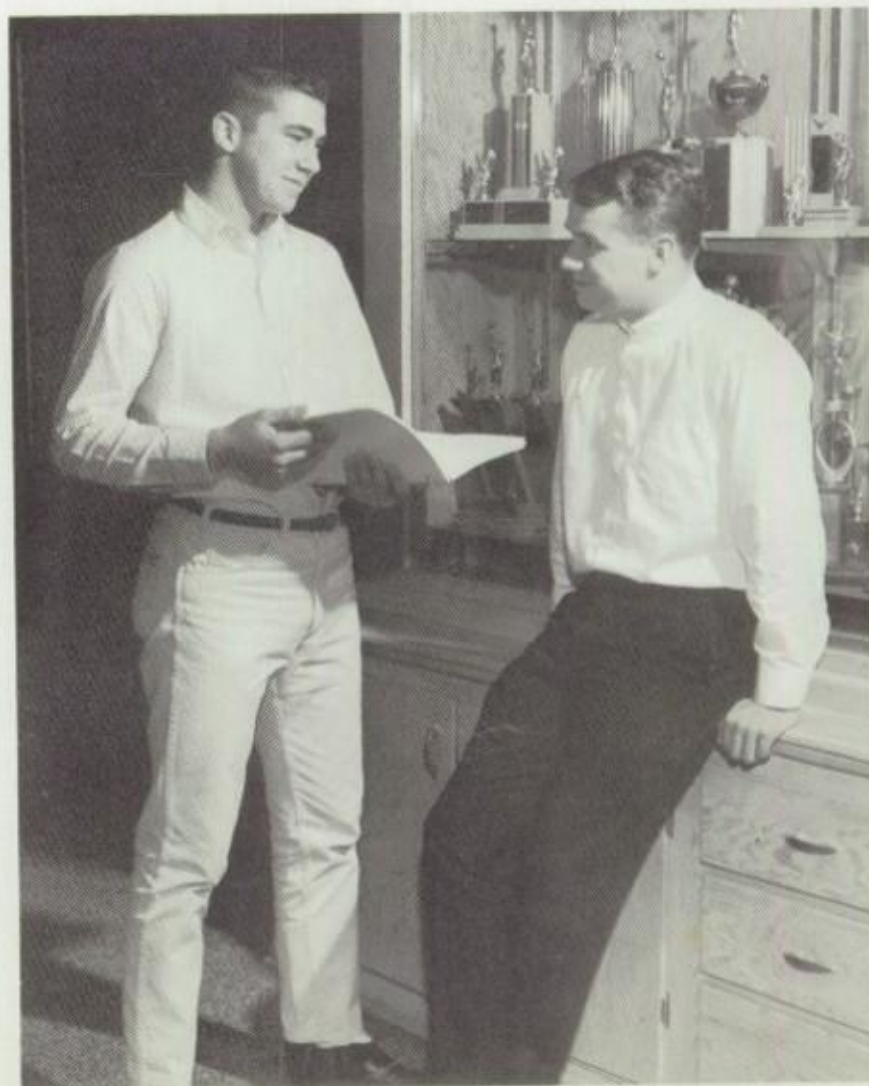

As the result of a comprehensive written test, Doris Bruner was presented the Betty Crocker Award, an honor in recognition of high achievement in the field of home economics.

Outstanding

Ron Rave was named a member of the Little All-State first team, while Jim Atherton received honorable mention.

In acknowledgement of her fine qualities of leadership, dependability, service, patriotism, citizenship, and loyalty, Virginia Smith was presented the highly coveted D.A.R. Award.

Football team members named to the all-conference squad were Ron Rave, end; Jim Atherton and Harry Eager, backs; and Allen Worsley, tackle.

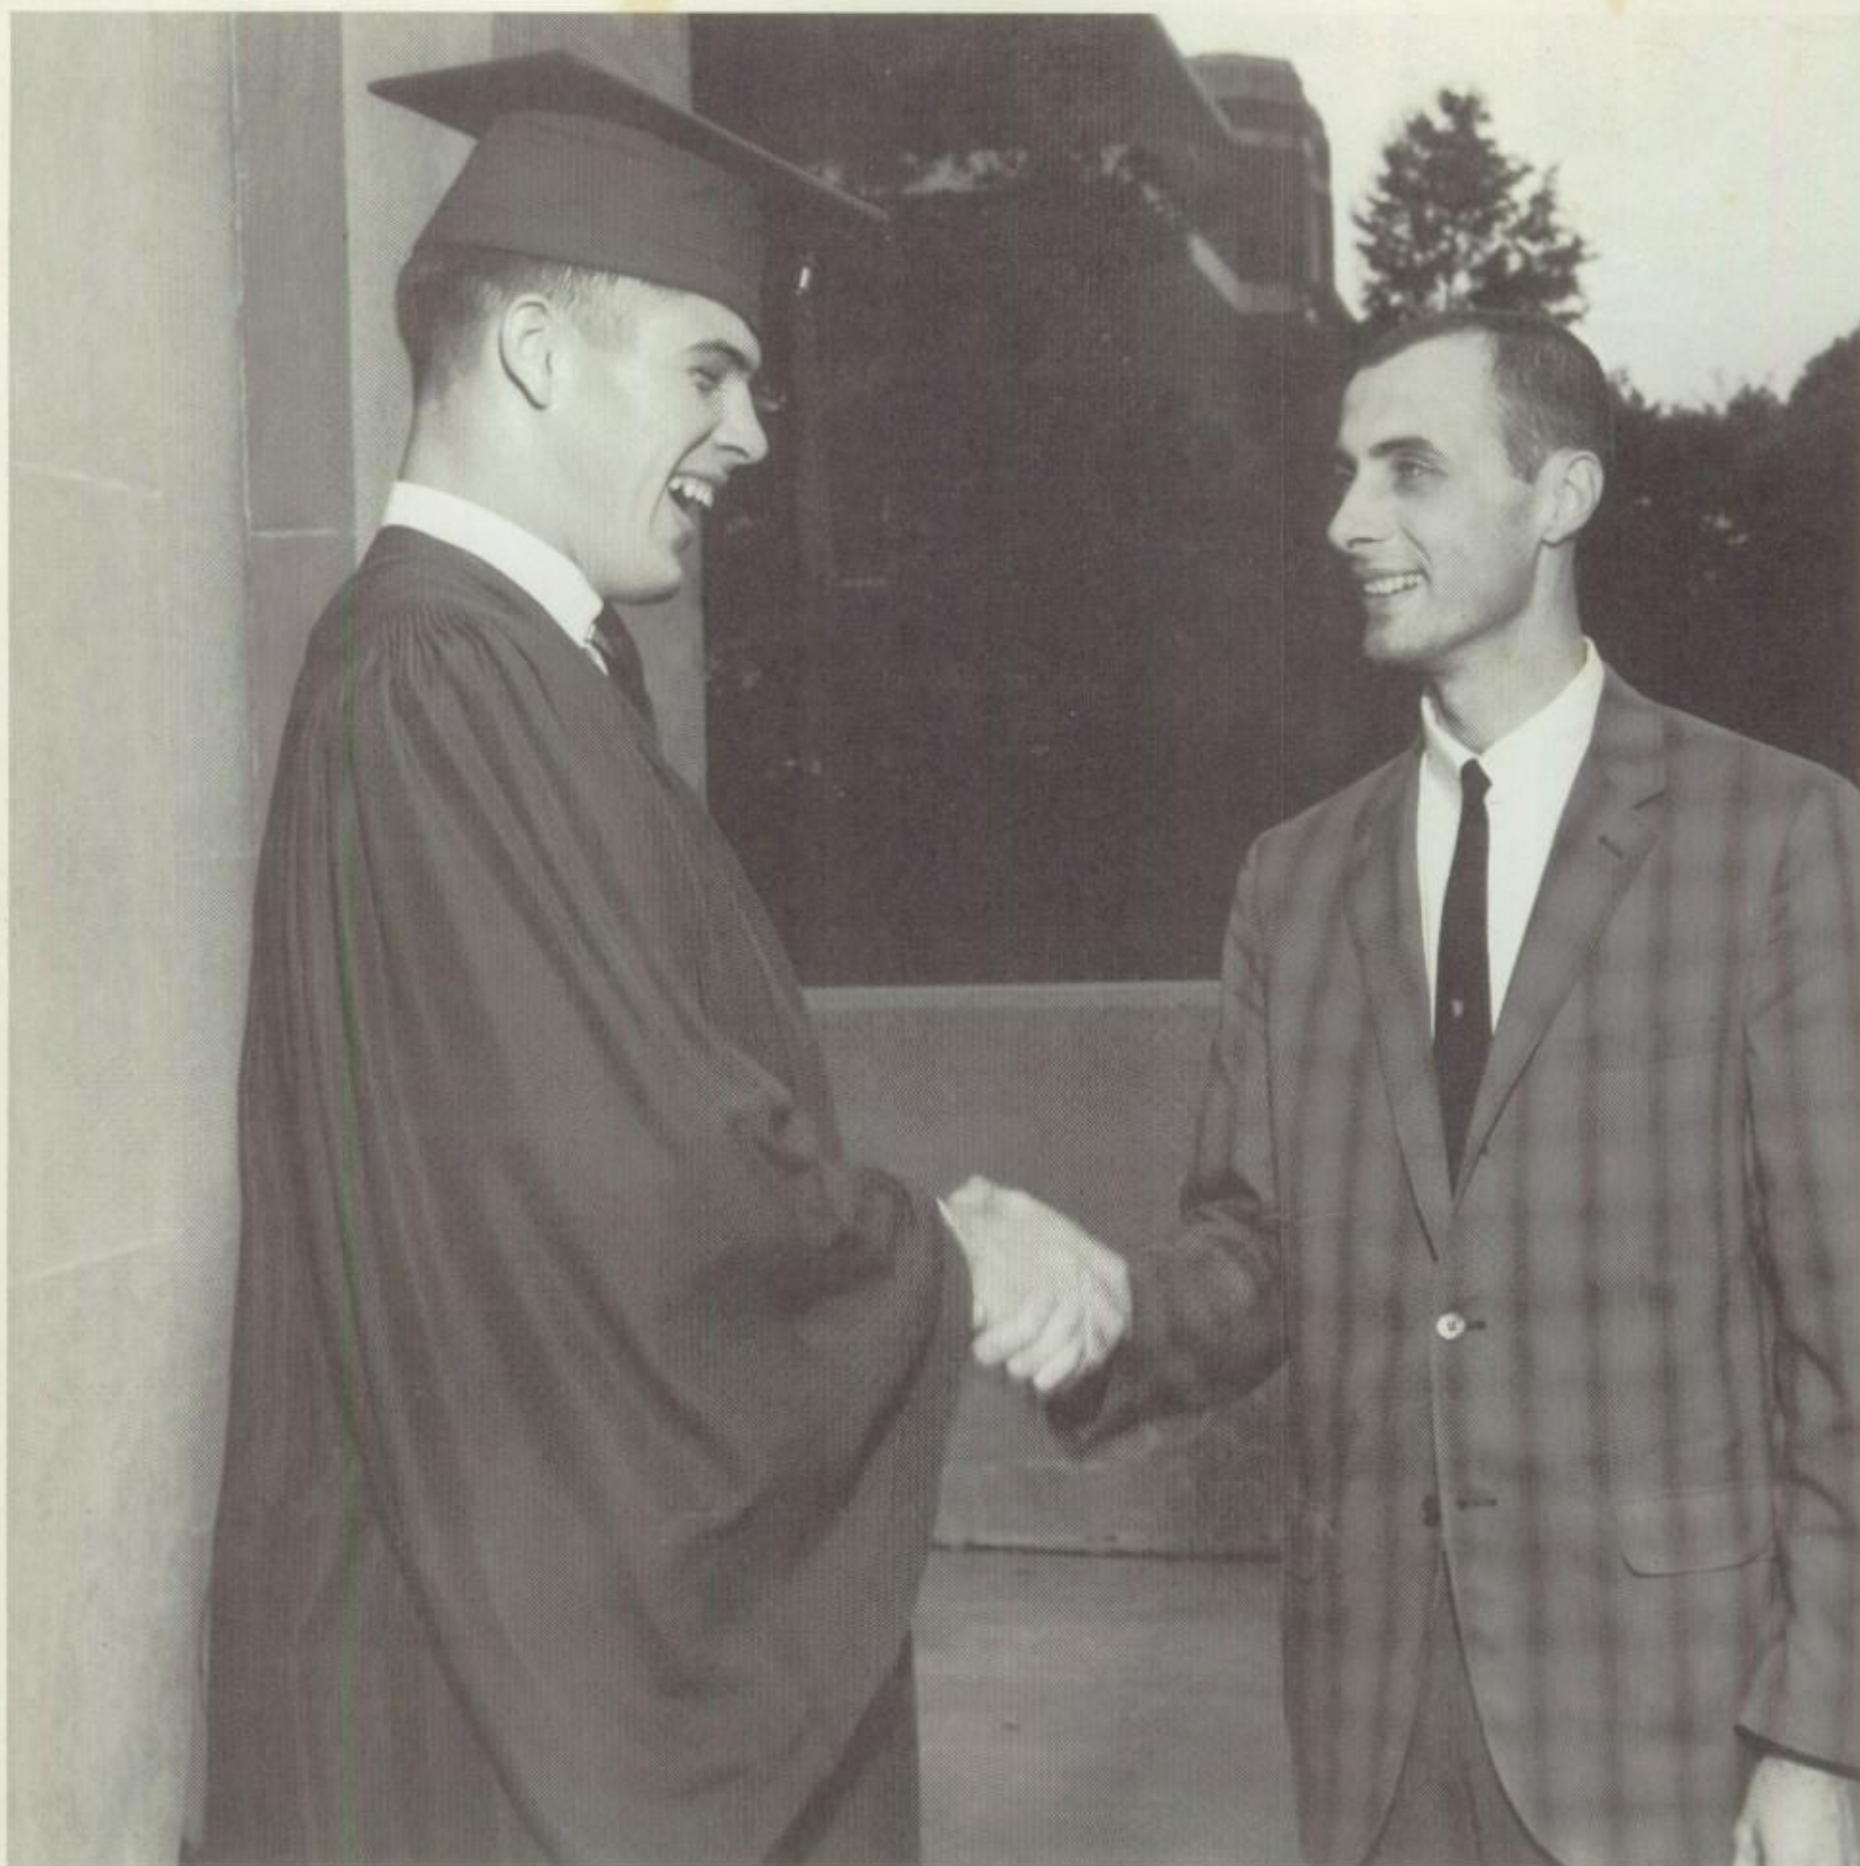

Achievements Win Recognition for E.H.S.

Virginia Smith was chosen by the local Legion Auxiliary to represent Earlville for the first time in sending a delegate to Girls State.

On the basis of a fine record of interest and achievement in agriculture, Jack Cantlin was chosen as a State Farmer. This honor was accorded to only 2% of the 16,000 applicants.

Only yesterday, it seems, we were carefree high school students--cheering our athletes on to victory, working hard to promote a dance, practicing diligently for music contests, "cramming" for a test in a course too long neglected.

But today we must leave the adolescent life we have known so long and take our places in modern society. With confidence in the fine preparation which Earlville High School has given us, we eagerly accept the challenge of the future.

ADMINISTRATION AND CURRICULUM

These are our TEACHERS.

See how smart they look.

See how overworked and underpaid they look.

Poor teachers.

Mr. Robert H. Thayer, Superintendent

Mr. Robert Thayer, our new superintendent, was born in Ottawa and grew to young manhood in the Bloomington Normal area. He earned his Bachelor's degree from Illinois State University and his Master's degree from Millikin University.

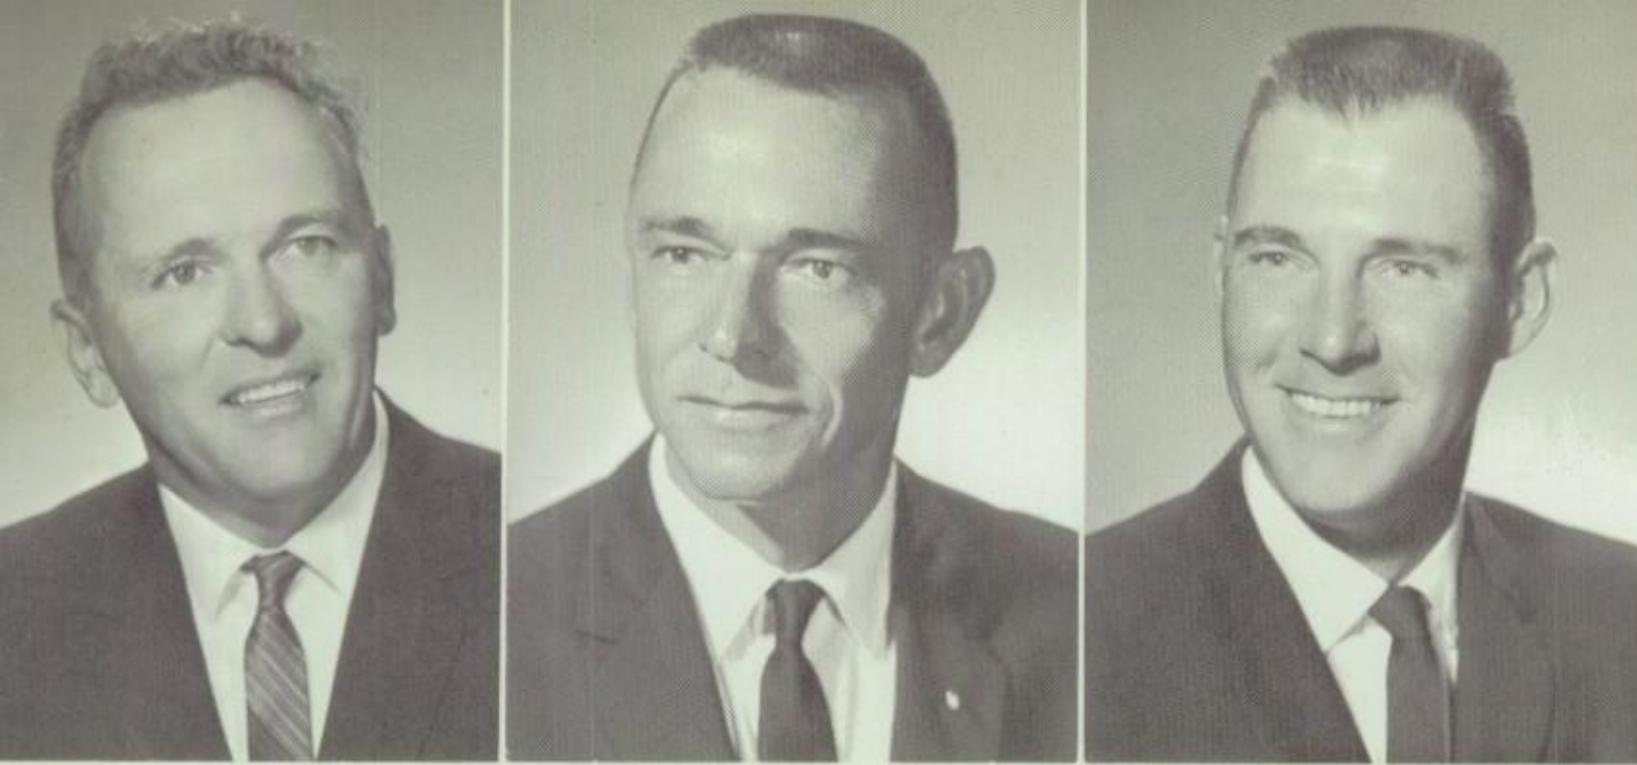

Mr. Thayer is a marine corps veteran of World War II. He is a member of the National Education Association and several other professional organizations. He was formerly employed in the schools of Ashton and Warrenville.

With cheerful perception, patience, and understanding, Mr. Thayer handles the innumerable problems pertaining to a school system of 700 students, 35 teachers, and 14 other employees.

Board Leads Drive for Better School

Our Seven-member Board of Education, presided over by Mr. Zimmerman, is elected by the voters of the district, each for a term of three years. Their duties, like those of all similar governing bodies, have to do with the over-all management of the school. Financial and executive affairs and the formulation of school policies are all a part of their responsibility to the people who have elected them.

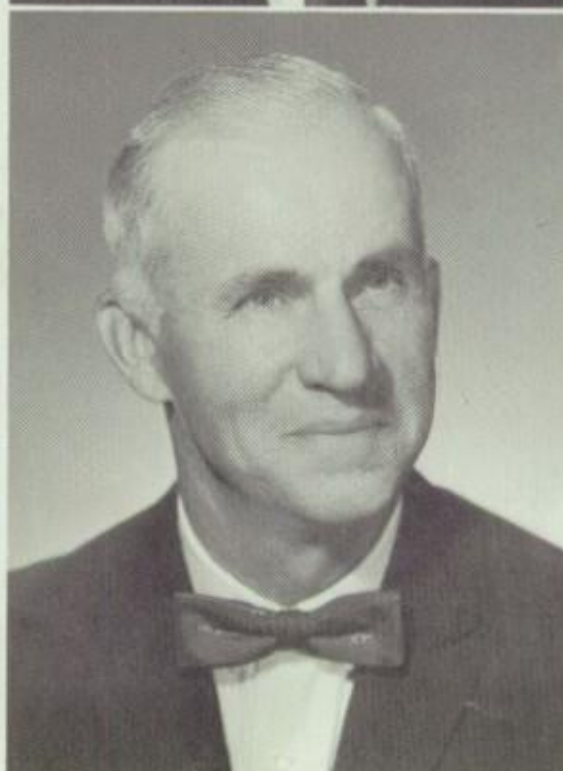

Mr. T. O. Zimmerman, Pres.
Mr. Fred Torman

Mr. Harold Gast
Mr. Maynard Martin

Mr. Rieke

Assisting Mr. Thayer with the administrative problems of the high school is our principal Mr. Rieke who came to Earlville in 1964. His many duties include organizing class schedules, advising the Student Council, and supervising the numerous activities of the high school. Mr. Rieke also teaches one class of Junior English.

Transporting students to and from school required patience and understanding. The bus drivers pictured above are: Mr. Albert Storkman, Mr. Leslie Ball, Mrs. Norma Larson, Mrs. Esther Yarnell, Mrs. Mattie Burd, Mr. Stuart Montooth, Mr. Keith Hattis, absent.

These four custodians faced a difficult task as they strove to maintain cleanliness in our school. Pictured above are: Mr. Sid Winter, Mr. Forrest Vance, Mr. Donel Ziebarth, and Mr. Henry Goldman.

The two office secretaries, Mrs. Charlotte Cole and Mrs. Margaret Larabee, performed the daily office duties with much efficiency and precision.

Students Are Their Concern

The task of preparing the two noon meals, each lunch period consisting of thirty minutes, rested upon the following women: Mrs. Hattie Wolfe, Mrs. Mae Duffey, Mrs. Barbara Sanders, and Mrs. Betty Harmon.

Advanced agriculture courses offer training in working with concrete.

Ag and Industrial Arts: Students Gain

A wide and varied range of subjects including animal husbandry, soils, crops, fertilizer, farm mechanics and motors, electric farm wiring, farm management and record keeping are studied in the four-year agriculture course under the direction of Mr. Montooth.

Included in extra-curricular activities were contests with other schools in public speaking, parliamentary procedure, and livestock and grain fairs. These numerous activities help in the development of the well-educated farm youth.

Students repair and maintain various types of engines.

Mechanical drawing is one of the many arts in which shop students acquire skill.

Industrial arts students learn complicated woodworking procedures.

Practical Knowledge Through Everyday Use

Mr. Ball's industrial arts classes acquired skills in mechanical drawing, woodworking, metalwork, electricity, plastics, and leatherwork.

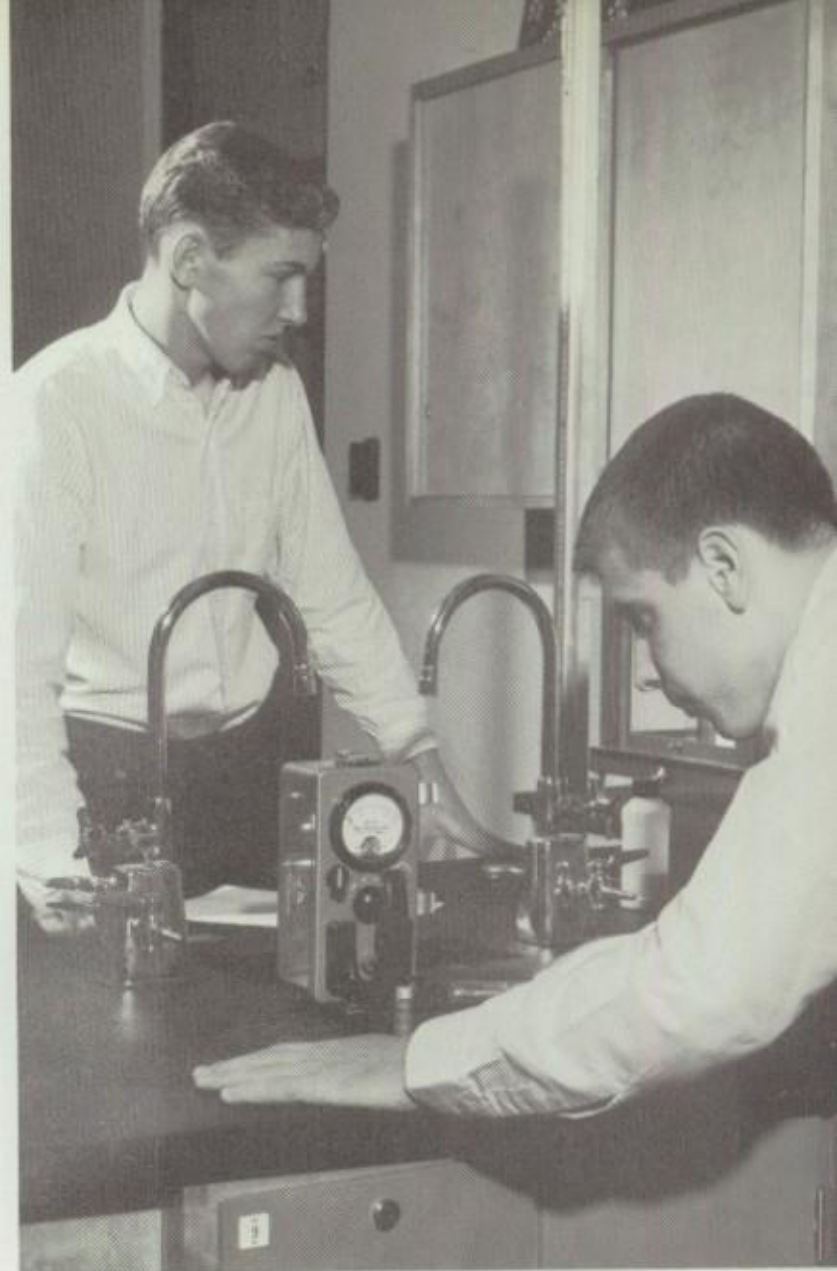

In addition to a working knowledge of the modern tools for the above subjects, the students also learned the background and history of each area taught.

Mr. Leslie Ball. High School Industrial Arts I, II, III, and IV; Jr. Hi. Industrial Arts; Senior Class Adviser; Study Hall Supervisor.

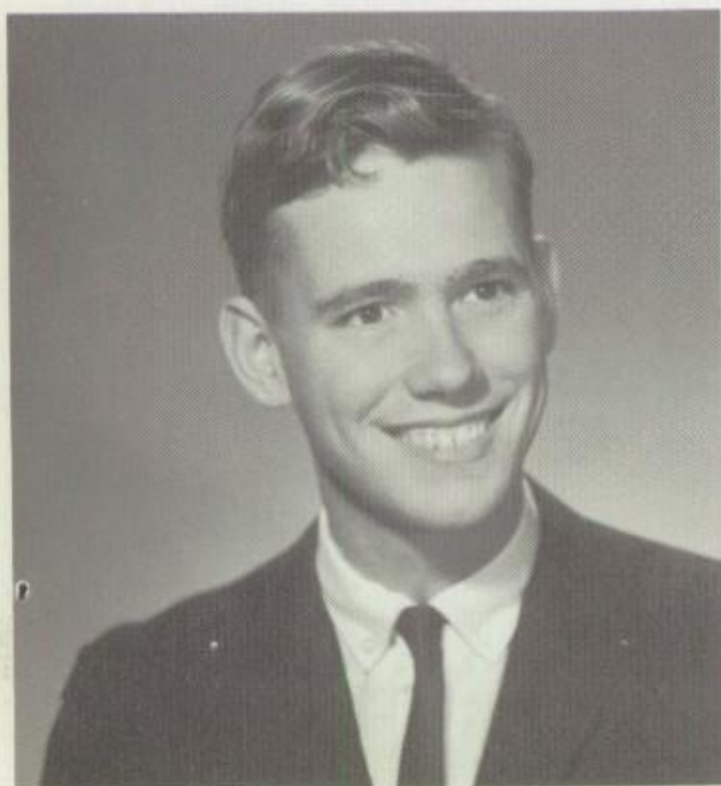

General science students were able to perform experiments such as distillation to prove for themselves statements they had read in the text.

Experimenting with such instruments as the geiger counter and the Boyle's Law apparatus, physics students discovered the basic laws of nature.

Through the use of the microscope, members of the biology class learned about living things.

With the resignation of Mr. Bann, who accepted a position with the Earlville bank, two new instructors, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Timmerman, were added to the science department.

Mr. Timmerman taught the physical science course in which freshmen were given an introduction to astronomy, chemistry, and physics, spending approximately twelve weeks on each. He also taught another freshman course in general science which was an insight into science for everyday living. Physics, a junior and senior course which had been offered alternately with chemistry every second year, was also taught by Mr. Timmerman. By reading, working problems, and through direct observation, the class attempted to discover a logical theoretical basis of the physical nature of the universe.

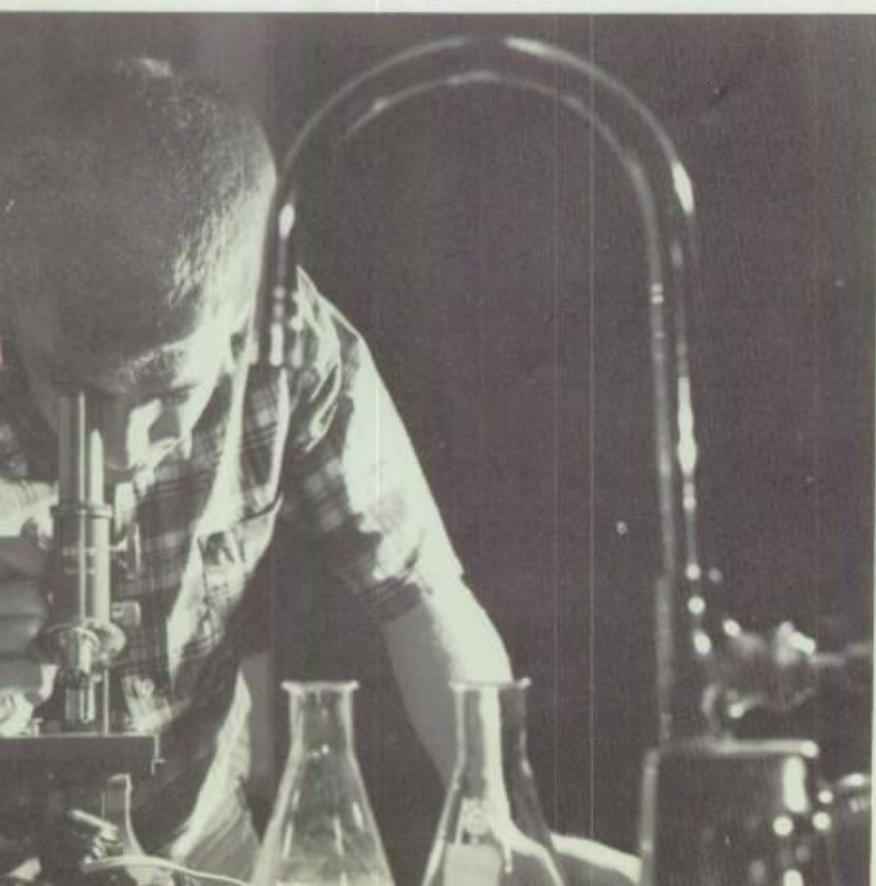

Teaching science classes in the junior high school, Mrs. Timmerman also instructed two classes in biology, a course composed of sophomores and upperclassmen. In addition to the conventional curriculum, the class completed experiments in genetics with fruit flies. They also spent time working with bacteria and molds.

Mrs. Lorraine Timmerman, Junior High Science, Biology; Seventh Grade Adviser; Study Hall Supervisor.

Nature of the Universe

The spectroscope was only one of the devices with which physical science students became familiar with identifying unknown substances or compounds.

Trigonometry students learned the fundamentals of the slide rule as an aid in the solution of their problems.

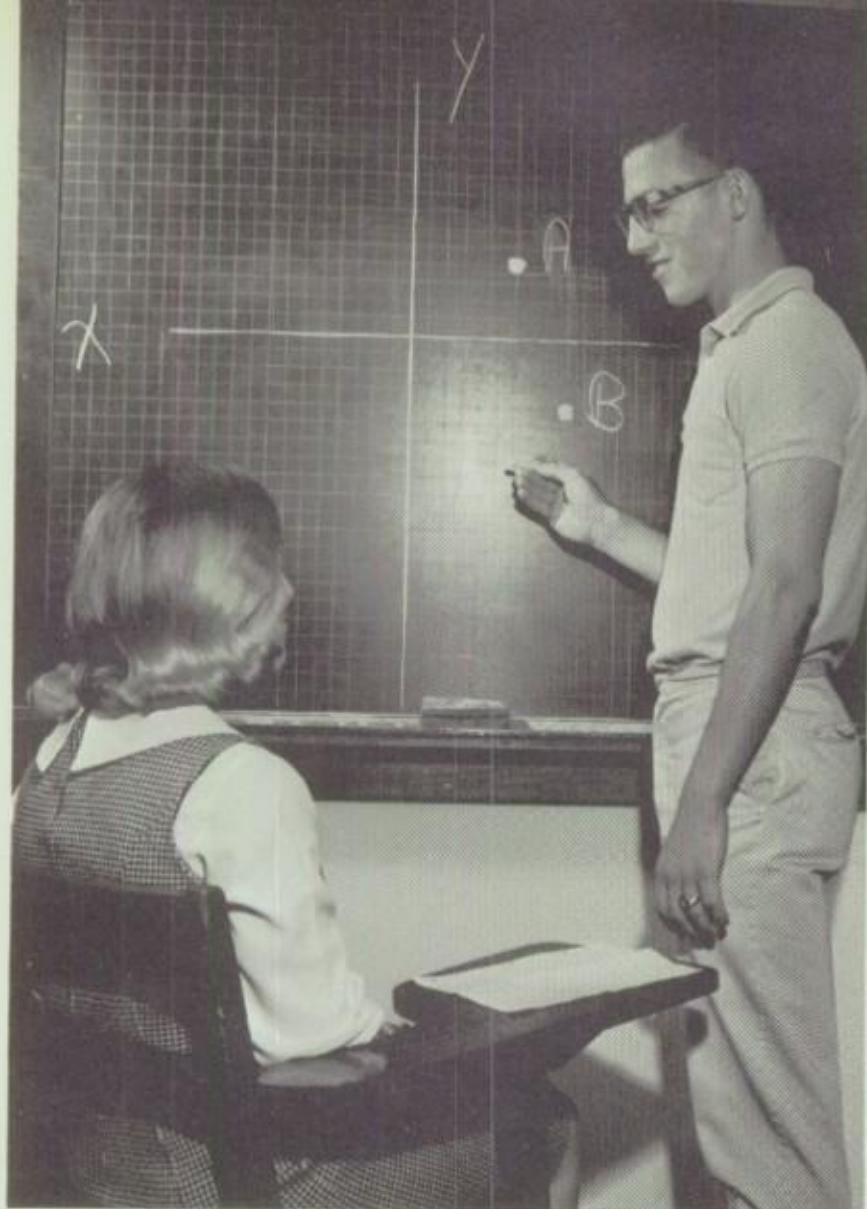

One Hundred Eleven Students Enrolled in Math Courses

Students in algebra I attempt to factor an equation for the benefit of the class.

While a geometry student acted as teacher, the class observed as the solution to the problem was found.

Because of the difficult problems in algebra II, blackboard demonstrations were needed to make the solutions more understandable.

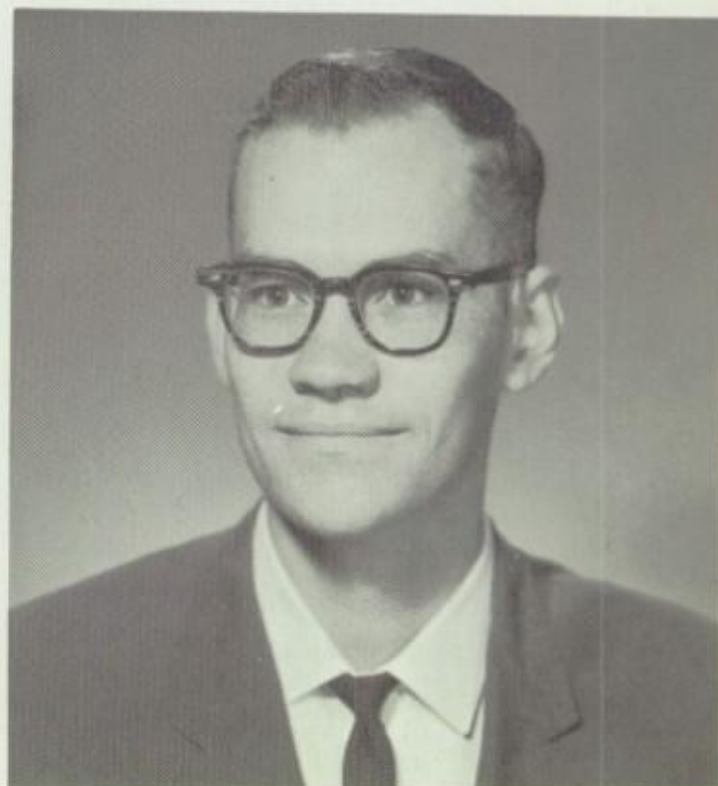

Although a four-year math program is offered to the students of our high school, only one year of study is required for graduation. Freshmen are given a choice between general math and algebra. The latter has the advantage of developing a variety of problem-solving techniques. For centuries, geometry has been studied for the purpose of stimulating thinking.

Algebra II, college algebra, and trigonometry point the way to college work and remind the student that mathematics has well been named the "international language of numbers."

Math: International Language of Numbers

Mr. Jerry Holman. Junior High Math, Algebra I and II, Geometry, College Algebra, and Trigonometry; Sophomore Class Adviser.

The social studies department, under the direction of Mr. Rose and Mr. Tuftie, endeavors to give students an understanding of the present through the study of geographical and historical facts.

World history, taught by Mr. Tuftie, is required for all students in either the freshman or sophomore year. Also under the instruction of Mr. Tuftie, social problems is available only to seniors. The first semester world problems are considered; the second, individual and small group problems.

Mr. Rose teaches American history and world geography. The former is a course required in either the junior or senior year, but the latter is an optional subject which includes an intensive study of Illinois geography and frequent discussion of current events.

American history students attempt to broaden their knowledge as they study the map of the United States.

Classroom notes are taken by students in the world history class.

Freshman English students took advantage of the bulletin board to illustrate their study of literature.

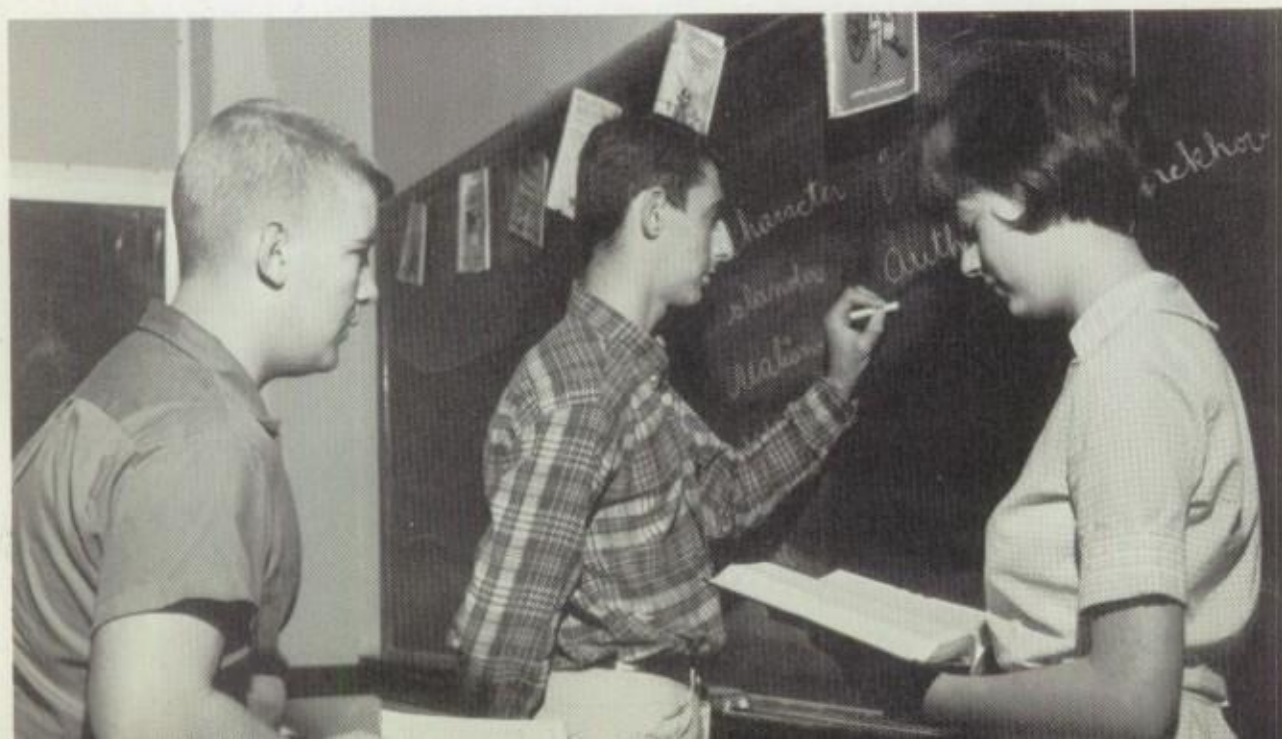

Mrs. Helen Zerkel, English III and IV, Spanish I and II; Senior Class Adviser; Spanish Club Adviser; Junior Play Director.

At the time a four-year high school was established in Earlville in 1900, English literature was taught in the junior year and American literature in the senior year. This plan was continued until the fall of 1964, when the reverse order was adopted by the administration. For that reason, only American literature was taught last year. Beginning in September 1965, American literature became a junior subject and English literature, a senior study.

Mrs. Potterbaum's freshman and sophomore English classes followed the usual pattern of alternating the study of composition and literature. Book reports were required every six weeks.

Language and Literature: the Foundation of Our Culture.

The sophomore English class stressed the importance of an extensive vocabulary.

The English III class spent the entire year studying American literature.

Mrs. Patricia Potterbaum. English I and II; Librarian; Library Club Adviser; Freshman Class Adviser; Senior Play Director.

In a lighter moment, these Spanish students demonstrated the Mexican Hat Dance.

First year Spanish students found studying together an easy and pleasant way to learn vocabulary words.

Pam Kreiter and Beverly Bailey admired a replica of the Globe, Shakespeare's theater.

Shorthand recordings provide additional practice material for students who wish to improve their speed and skill.

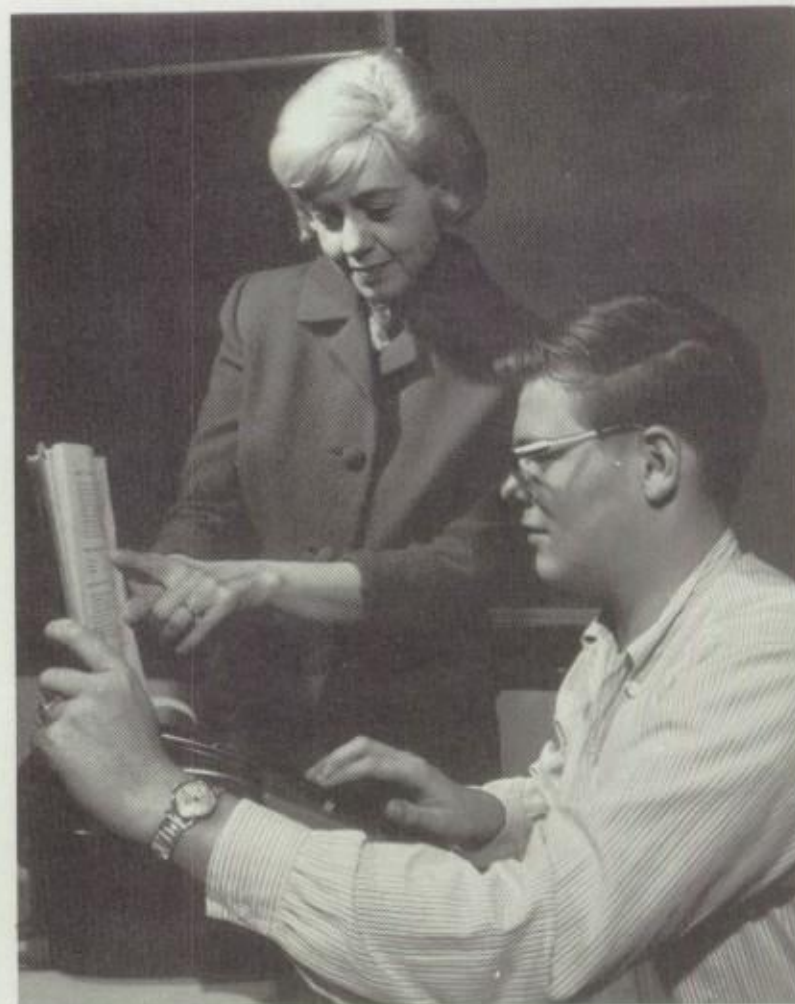

Mrs. Chloeteel Large. Typing, Shorthand, Bookkeeping, Office Practice; Study Hall Supervisor; Freshman Adviser; Yearbook Adviser.

Business Courses Give Occupational Training

E.H.S. students who are planning careers as secretaries, stenographers, and bookkeepers learn that "practice makes perfect" through the business education courses provided. These courses cover four basic areas, typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, and office practice--all of which are under the direction of one teacher in a two-room department.

Two dictaphones are part of the equipment used in the office practice class.

Mrs. Large often assists students in computing bookkeeping problems.

Students often confer with Mr. Storkman, our guidance counselor, about vocational interests or plans for higher education.

Mr. Albert Storkman, Guidance Counselor, Seventh Grade Science, Cafeteria Monitor.

Mr. Storkman the guidance counselor, administers a program which is designed to aid E.H.S. students with their academic problems. In addition to being responsible for all phases of the testing program, Mr. Storkman also helps students plan their course of study. To accomplish this, he interviews each student at least once during the school year.

As an aid to finding a college or vocation fitted to the abilities or interests of the students, the guidance office contains an extensive library of current school catalogues.

Preparation for All Walks of Life.

All sophomores are required by state law to take a course in driver education. The nine-week course was taught this year by Mr. Tuftie with each student spending a minimum of six hours driving under his supervision.

The car for driving instruction was provided by the Chevrolet dealer, Mr. Humm.

Sophomore driver education students learn not only the mechanical aspects of driving but also the motto, "safety first."

Under the guidance of Mrs. Fouts, the girls in the home economics department prepare themselves to be useful adults in a rapidly changing world.

There is much activity in these modern, well-equipped rooms as the variety of subjects--from hemming a dress to complicated tailoring, from baking cookies to canning, from understanding basic color schemes to interior decorating, and from problems of baby sitting to child development.

In addition to learning how to sew their clothes, home economics students also master the fundamentals of cooking and child care.

N.H.S. Installed Seven New Members

Four years ago the Earlville Chapter of the National Honor Society was established to recognize individuals who displayed outstanding qualities of scholarship, leadership, service, and character. Election to the society became a highly coveted honor, limited, however, to a small percentage from each class. Last spring seven new members were chosen by the faculty.

During Christmas vacation, these students were honored at a tea attended by their parents, acting and graduate members, and the faculty.

President Dean Whittaker had charge of the program at the spring scholastic banquet, which gave recognition to the honor roll students.

Student council officers discussed Homecoming preparations with Mr. Rieke, the council adviser.

The student council, student governing body of Earlville High School, was very active throughout the year.

In the spring, Jack Cantlin was chosen president by vote of the entire student body. At the first meeting in September, the remaining officers were elected by the group itself. Each high school class was allowed three council representatives, who were required to maintain at least a "B" average.

This organization selected the assembly programs, planned the homecoming festivities, organized the high school Christmas party, and sponsored the scholastic banquet.

Long Hours, Hard Work Made '66 "Raidorian"

The Raidorian, which was drawn up in rough draft form during the summer vacation, was prepared for printing and editing during the school year.

As in previous years, members of the editorial staff attended the N.I.S. P.A. convention at Northern Illinois University. The 1965 edition of the Raidorian received a secondclass honor rating from the National Scholastic Press Association.

The yearbook is financed through yearbook sales, class and organizational donations, and contributions from businessmen in Earlville and surrounding communities.

Future Homemakers Support "Care" in Viet Nam

The program formulated this year by the Earlville Chapter of the F. H. A. was planned to include a community or national service, provide social interests for the club members, and enrich their education.

The F. H. A. engaged in such activities as jointly sponsoring with the F. F. A. a hayride and a Christmas dance. The club also contributed to CARE, which supplied aid to South Viet Nam.

Jack Cantlin Chosen State Farmer

Throughout the year F.F.A. members take part in various contests, most of which are held in competition with other F.F.A. groups. These include land evaluations, prepared and extemporaneous speeches, and the judging and identification of dairy animals, meat, livestock, milk, grain, and weeds. The Earlville Chapter has won the DeKalb Corn Trophy for the past two years, and this year took fourth place in the Parliamentary Procedure contest. In competition with all F.F.A. boys in this state, Jack Cantlin ranked in the upper two per cent which entitled him to become State Farmer. He was also elected sectional reporter, and Steven Hecathorn was elected sectional vice-president for the F.F.A.

Library Club Sponsors Book Fair

The library club, an organization which was formed this year, proved to be of value to the faculty, students, and the school librarian, Mrs. Potterbaum.

The student librarians assisted in the cataloging of books and reference materials, and performed much of the library's clerical work. Decorating the library, a monthly project, was also another endeavor that was undertaken by the club.

The main project was the sponsoring of the Book Fair, which gave students and teachers an opportunity to purchase books.

Students and teachers enjoyed the book fair--a project sponsored by the library club.

Future Scientists Undertake the Construction of an Observatory

This year the Earlville Student Experimental Organization was established for the purpose of stimulating interest in the field of science. Each member was required to have one scientific project. Two major undertakings of the club were the construction of an observatory and the building of a dark room.

Sweepstakes 1965

At the state contest, Earlville won the sweepstakes award for having received a superior number of "firsts" in the solo/ensemble and band/chorus contests. The organizations participating were mixed chorus, boys' chorus, girls' chorus, and band.

Band Students Anticipate

Mr. Roger Hewitt. Grade and High School Band; Junior Class Adviser; Study Hall Supervisor.

The band has four main objectives.

It imparts cultural benefits by the continuing development of musical appreciation and understanding through the study and performance of the best in band music.

It also has an educational function in the development of competent performers--potential music students and teachers--and the enhancement of the aesthetic awareness of the participants.

In addition, the band also functions as a service organization. It lends color and promotes the dignity and reputation of the school through traditional on and off campus appearances.

Finally, it is recreational, in that it provides instrumentalists with an opportunity for emotional outlet and social interaction.

Since ninety-five students reported for chorus this year, it was necessary for Mrs. Torman to have two sections. For the Christmas program, the spring concert, and the final contests, they sang as one unit. The placing of second in the contest contributed toward our school's winning the Music State Sweepstakes for class C schools in 1965.

On the evening of November 12, the junior and senior members presented a program for their parents at Shabbona High School, under the direction of Mr. Richard Hoffland of Millikin University. The concert was preceded by a day of strenuous and intensive rehearsal.

The increased choral membership necessitated the purchase of many new robes this year.

ATHLETICS

See our ATHLETES.
They fight hard for our school.
Color them BLACK and BLUE.
We love them because they are 'mean men.'
The coaches make them practice very hard.
The coaches don't love them.

With a second place finish in the Little-Eight Conference this year, our Raiders achieved a 6-1 conference record and a 6-2 overall record.

Four team members were named to the all-conference squad for the Little-Eight: end Ron Rave, backs Jim Atherton and Harry Eager, and tackle Allen Worsley. The coaches in the conference also named five Earlville players for honorable mention: Terry Harger, Jim Wyciskalla, Jack Cantlin, Ray Bauer, and Chuck Frank.

A member of the Little All-State first team, for schools of less than 500 students, was end Ron Rave, also leading Earlville tackler. Jim Atherton, a quarterback, received special mention. Another back, Harry Eager, was Earlville's leading scorer with 58 points and also our rushing leader with 6.2 yards per carry.

The entire football season was marked by hard work and good playing on the part of all members of the squad.

After breaking away from opposing team members, Allen Worsley gained several yards for Earlville.

Golf and Rifle Team Are Popular Sports at E.H.S.

This fall both the Golf and Rifle Clubs entered their second year in the extra-curricular activities of E.H.S.

The Rifle Club members meet once a week to compete for medals offered by the National Rifle Association. There is also a shoot to win the annual trophy.

The 1965 champion of the club shoot-off was John Gast.

The Golf Club is under the supervision of Mr. Wineburner. These boys improve their golfing, as do all sportsmen, by practice and competition.

Gary Myers displays proper form as he begins a game by teeing off.

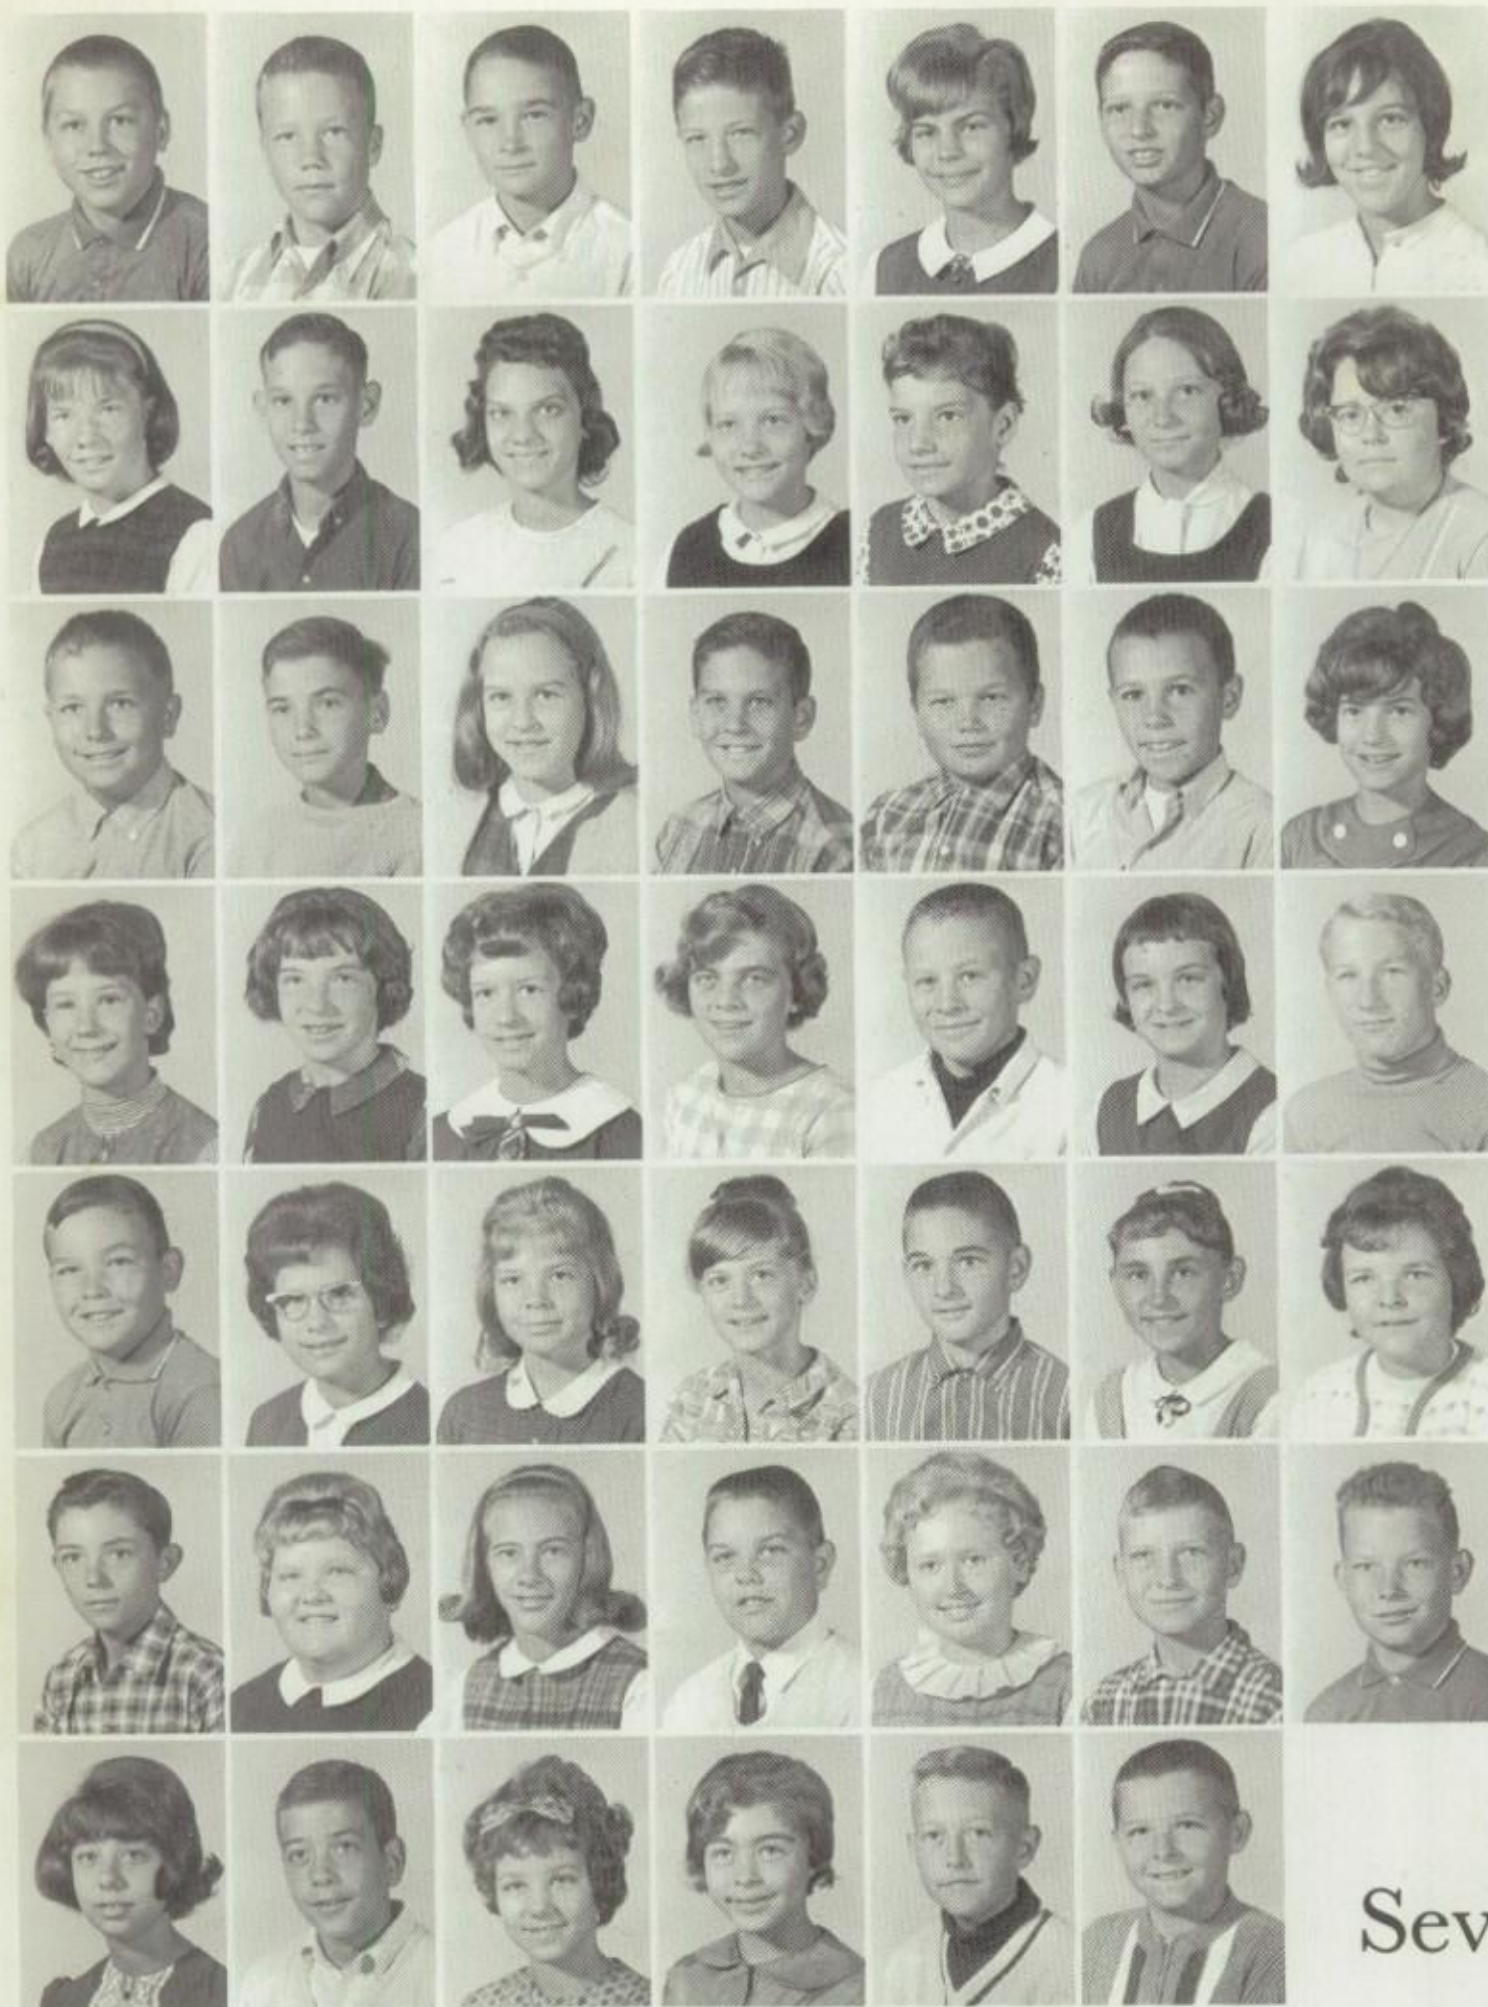

After a close game, three members compare notes.

As we stand on the stair steps of a new life, viewing the years that are past, our thoughts are stirred by emotions of joy and regret.

We are deeply grateful for the opportunities which our school has offered. Some we have accepted--others we have neglected--and our lives have been enriched or made poorer by our decision.

Businessmen Contribute $375.00

Each year the merchants of Earlville and surrounding towns make substantial contributions toward the publication of our yearbook.

Those who gave $5, $10, $15, or $20 are listed as sponsors and those who gave $3 are listed as patrons. One asterisk, preceding a name, indicates a gift of $10; two, a gift of $15; three a gift of $20.
